Overview

How many rogue communication devices were found in Chinese solar inverters?

The number of devices investigated was also not disclosed. This follows discovery of rogue communication devices not listed in product documents in some Chinese solar inverters, according to Reuters. The devices were reportedly found over a period of nine months and include communication devices such as cellular radios.

Are Chinese-made inverter devices posing a risk?

From pv magazine Global Unexplained communication devices have been found inside some Chinese-made inverter devices, according to a Reuters report. The news agency claims U.S. energy officials are reassessing the risk posed by Chinese-made devices according to two unnamed sources. The number of devices investigated was also not disclosed.

Are undocumented communication devices hidden in Chinese-made solar inverters?

This investigative article exposes the discovery of undocumented communication devices hidden in Chinese-made solar inverters, creating unprecedented vulnerabilities in global power grids.

Who makes power inverters?

Chinese companies are the biggest manufacturers of power inverters, used by manufacturers of solar panels, wind turbines and other types of renewable power components around the world.

Are 'rogue' communication devices hidden inside solar power inverters?

In a discovery that has sent shockwaves through the cybersecurity community, U.S. energy officials have found undocumented "rogue" communication devices hidden inside solar power inverters imported from

Are Chinese power inverters being used on solar panels?

U.S. officials have discovered undisclosed communication devices on Chinese-made power inverters that were being used on solar panels, Reuters reported today based on anonymous sources within the federal government. The inverters are devices separate from power sources like solar arrays or batteries.
